Michigan Grocery Brands

The following list of brand names will help you to identify local buying opportunities when you see them on the shelf. Most brands can be purchased through stores and not just via the internet. If you have trouble finding a brand in your local store, however, you may likely order it online. Once you've done that, don't forget to ask your local store to start carrying it for you in the future.

*Michigan produces many other fine brands of wine; however we have limited our list to those that have chosen to be a part of the Michigan Blue Pages on our site. If one of your favorites is missing, please advise them to build a listing.

NOTE: While we have made every effort to ensure that the information included in this guide is accurate, we cannot guarantee it. We highly recommend, reading labels, asking questions, and ongoing research in your quest to Think Michigan First. To add your Michigan-based business, visit www.BuyMichiganNow.com.

Agriculture

Agriculture is the 3rd largest industry in Michigan (trailing only manufacturing and tourism, respectively). Buying from local farmers and markets fuels our economy, while reducing our collective carbon footprint. Here is a list of the state's major commodities, which are commercially available:

Apples	Green Onions
Asparagus	Honey
Beans	Lamb
Beef	Maple Syrup
Bison	Mint
Blueberries	Onions
Carrots	Peaches
Celery	Plums
Cherries	Pork
Corn	Potatoes
Cranberries	Poultry
Dairy	Rhubarb
Eggs	Soybeans
Grapes	Sugar
Ginseng	Wine

Many communities also hold farmer's markets seasonally, which are a great way to support local growers. Such markets often include a wider variety of fruits & vegetables than those listed above. For information regarding Farmer's Markets in your area, consult the Michigan Farmers Market Association.
